

Including Transgender Victims in the Garden of Peace

The Garden of Peace is a memorial commemorating victims of homicide. Each victim in this garden is united by the circumstances that led to their death. Families and friends of these victims are united in their loss, in their efforts to end violence, and in their continual search to find some peace. It is here in this Garden, we can find some Peace. The river stones with the names of the victim are placed along the dry riverbed.

Guidelines for including victims' names:

- Connection to Massachusetts: either the victim or survivors do, or did reside here; or the victim was here at the time of the crime.
  - Stone information: the victim's name, date of birth and date of death.
  - One stone per individual: Names will be engraved on a first-come basis until all stones in the stream are used. Thereafter stones will be added to other areas of the Garden
